

Beyond Germany's borders – the German Deboning Championship is turning European!

The German Deboning Championship is turning into a European Deboning Championship.

The German Deboning Championship has already been held three times with great success. The best of the best met for a fair competition. The winners received glory and honour and a brand new Harley-Davidson. The sportive competition attracted numerous participants in the past. The many spectators viewed the spectacle either on site directly in the competition room or on a maxi video screen.

The initiators were repeatedly asked whether competitors from the European states could participate because registrations had often been sent from other states in the past. After short considerations, all came to the agreement: The Deboning Championship will turn international and will be expanded. Anyone working in the European meat industry can participate now.

The European meat industry is undergoing a fast structural change. More and more meat companies are engaged in cross-border enterprises and have their operating sites all over Europe. Uniform European framework conditions continue to apply so that national differences are a thing of the past.

The event will take place on 29 August 2009 in Rheda-Wiedenbrück, Germany.

Numerous hotels in the vicinity offer accommodation. Food and beverages will be taken care of and, of course, families and fans will also be welcome.

Participants can register on the Friedr. Dick website: www.dick.de
